THREE MASTER IN DISTRESS

Tug Has Been Sent From Portland to Aid Schooner Off Kennebunkport.

(Special to The Herald)
Portland, Me., Nov. 20.—The four-masted schooner Major Pickands, several fishing schooners and a big power craft went ashore in the harbor during the heavy storm early today. An unknown three masted schooner is flying danger signals off Kennebunkport. A tug has been sent from Portland to assist her.

A message received here this noon swept the New England coast last night. The captain of the schooner Rebecca was washed overboard but rescued.

HEAVY FALL OF SNOW IN NEW YORK STATE

Forty-Two Inches of Snow Have Fallen During the Past Three Days.

(Special to The Herald)
Albany, N. Y., Nov. 20.—The Adirondacks are covered with snow, forty-two inches having fallen during the past three days and it is still snowing.

POLICE COURT.

In the district court this morning Judge Torrey sentenced Dennis Sullivan to the house of correction at Brentwood for a term of five months, with costs of $5.00. He is charged with drunkenness.

(Special to The Herald)
Paris, Nov. 20.—Severe weather conditions on the northern front has resulted in a lull in the German attacks in that region, both with regards to infantry and artillery attacks, according to an official announcement made here this afternoon. There has been a snow storm throughout the region along the Yser canal, and inundations have flooded the region east of Dixmude, near Ramscapelle. The French have taken out the water two 14-inch motors, abandoned by the Germans. The latter have made three vigorous infantry attacks in the Argonne region, but all have been repulsed. The official statement admits a gain for the Germans on the right wing of the allies, the Kaiser's troops having re-occupied that portion of Chavoncourt, which was blown up by German mines a few days ago.

ENGLISH WOMAN SHOT AS A SPY
(Special to The Herald)
London, Nov. 20.—A dispatch from Amsterdam states that an English woman was found at the Courtras la Cappelle barracks, dressed in the clothing of a priest, and was shot by the Germans as a spy.

LADIES' AID SCORES SUCCESS

Good Attendance at Fair Held in Kittery.

In spite of the extremely bad weather the fair held on Thursday by the Ladies' Aid of the Second Methodist church, Kittery, was a big success; and a large sum of money was realized. There were six booths, at which were sold fancy work, aprons, men's furnishings, cooked foods and candy. The fancy work booth was decorated with blue and white crepe paper festoons, with occasional sprays of crepe paper popples. At this booth all kinds of pretty and dainty fancy articles were displayed. The attendants were Mrs. Ida Marshall, chairman; Mrs. Thomas Ritchie, Miss May Dyer, Mrs. Shackleton, Misses Susie and Carrie Paul. At the apron booth the decorations were also in blue and white. Here many plain and fancy aprons were on sale. The attendants were Mrs. Pascal H. Braun, chairman; Mrs. Martha Rounds and Mrs. Myrtle Snell. At the men's booth were displayed a large assortment of Christmas and New Year cards, seals, greeting cards and men's furnishings. At this booth about $25 was taken in. The attendant was Mr. Harvey Grant. The decorations at the cooked food booth was of red and green crepe paper festoons. Here rolls, bread, doughnuts, fancy cakes and pies were offered. The attendants: Mrs. Addie Hall, chairman; Mrs. Charles Pinkham and Mrs. Charles Jones. At the candy booth, which was decorated in blue and white, all kinds of choice home made candies and chocolates in fancy boxes were on display. Attendants: Mrs. Frank Robbins, chairman; Mrs. Edgar F. Baker. At the grocery table was a large display of groceries. Various advertising posters and trademarks served as decorations. Attendants: Mrs. J. Edwin Paul, chairman; Mrs. Harlow Parsons and Mrs. A. J. Hayes. An interesting feature of the fair was two apple pies made by ten-year-old Master Roger Cochran. They were as fine looking and tasting as any housewife could make. From 6:30 to 7 o'clock the men of the church served a delicious clam chowder supper. Great credit is due those men in charge for its success. Over one hundred and twenty-five people were served, and about $40 was cleared on the supper alone. The following was the menu: Clam chowder, oyster crackers, pickles, pies, fruit, coffee and ice cream. The supper committee: Rev. A. J. Hayes, Messrs. Charles Rudolph, Albert Webber, B. G. Swift, H. M. Adams, Harvey Grant, Charles Jones, Arthur Baker, Floyd Walker and Dwight Walker. The waiters were: Messrs. Lawrence La France, Floyd Walker, Dwight Walker, Carroll Sterling, Earl Chick, Edward Maby, Albert Webber, Nelson Webber and Harold Jones.

GRANTED SICK LEAVE.

Rev. Harold M. Folsom, Rector of St. John's Church, Ill in New York.

The many friends of Rev. Harold M. Folsom, rector of St. John's Episcopal church will be sorry to learn that he is suffering from nervous prostration at the home of his brother in New York. Rev. Mr. Folsom has been in poor health for some time and his trouble was further aggravated by the death of his beloved sister. Bishop Edward M. Parker of the Episcopal diocese of New Hampshire has granted Rev. Mr. Folsom a sick leave and will supply the pulpit of St. John's, in person, next Sunday.

THE BELOVED ADVENTURER

CHAPTER IX.

Lord Cecil Plays a Part.

In the West, faintly seen, a thin line lay along the horizon, and in this lightly pencilled divider of blue-grey sky and gray-blue sea Lord Cecil fixed a dreamy gaze. Even as he looked, the blue vanished, sea and sky blended, and the shores of America had slipped over the edge of the world. The gulls that had followed the creaking wake checked, and with harsh cries of farewell, turned back. The throbbing beat from the heart of the ship seemed to fall to a lower note and a steadier rhythm, as though the great engines settled and reached for the stressless toiling of the days and nights to come.

Cecil turned toward the bow, and smiled contentedly. Off there, very far away, but nearer at each turn of the whirling screw, was England—home. For perhaps the first time in his life Cecil felt the stir of sentiment as he thought of Croftleigh Manor, the ancient house of his people, from which he would soon lift the shadow of debt that had so long hung threateningly above it. That land which had sunk into the West had been kind to him, had not failed to realize for him those glowing legends of fortunes to be swiftly won which in the Old World picture the New as El Dorado—strangely, but lavishly, had given him of its gold, and as a munificent goddess might follow a great gift with one of priceless treasure; there had been granted to him the ultimate joy of love. Enshrined in his heart was a flower-like face, with wistful eyes, and in visions of the future he could see a tender, girlish form strolling beneath the old oaks of Croftleigh, or hurrying with light step and shyly tender smile to meet him in the great hall, filling its amber eastness with the joy and brightness of her beauty and youth. Thirty years an mistress had signed at the Manor.

Lord Cecil turned from his dreams, to observe casually but with interest the life about him. Though hidden carefully from the world which would have to feel there abode in Cecil's gentle, slightly sad, a true affection for all mankind, and an impulsive charity which sometimes took quaint forms. There seemed to be the usual assortment of passengers—from the remarkable similarity of the people to be encountered on trans-Atlantic steamers—the one might be tempted to the fancy that the same individuals spend their entire lives aboard the ocean ferries. Cecil observed with particular interest the chronically worried mother of the small boy who, her apprehensions to the contrary, was not in the least danger of tumbling over the rail; the stout gentleman from a small town in the Middle West, who wore a yachting cap, addressed every uniform in sight

Only Sure Corn Cure Ever Known

"Gets-It" the New Way, 2 Drops Do It

To endure the pains and tortures caused by a little thing like a corn is ridiculous, simply because it is unnecessary. The new-plan corn cure,

"GETS-IT" is the first one ever known to remove corns without pain, without pain and without trouble. This is why it is the biggest-selling corn cure in existence today. It is now used by millions, because it does away with sickly tape, with plasters and cotton rings that shift their position and press down into the corn, with savers that "trap up" the toe, with "harnesses" that cause pressure and pain, with knives, razors and files, clawing and pulling at a corn.

"GETS-IT" is applied in two seconds. Two drops applied with the glass rod do the work. Pain goes, the corn shrivels, vanishes. Accept no substitute. Try it on any corn, wart, callus or hangnail tonight.

"GETS-IT" is sold by druggists everywhere, in a bottle, or sent direct by E. Lawrence & Co., Chicago.

Here are Two Coaches at Extremes Of Systems of College Coaching

George H. Brooke, coach of the football team of the University of Pennsylvania, and Frank A. Hinkey, who holds the same position at Yale, are men entirely different in their methods and systems. Brooke is regarded as an "easy boss." He is mild and persuasive, always gentlemanly and he is well liked. He knows his business too, knows it up and down and sideways. Hinkey is a human crab. He is never satisfied with the work his players do. He rides them all the time, and if he has any friends they are not loud in expressing their friendship. The result? Brooke is to end his connection with the Pennsylvania team with this season, and Hinkey is sure of being retained.

With a yawn he turned away. Mr. Badger followed, without deeming their late opponent worthy of any remark whatsoever. For some minutes Harry sat still, his fever steadily mounting, as his brain, no longer concentrated on the game, felt the full effect of his drink. A furious resentment began to boil in his breast. Took all his money, and then laughed at it, did they? Couldn't all in a man-sized game, couldn't he? He'd show them a thing or two! He'd flash a roll that would scare 'em into death, then he'd win back his own money and every cent they had. Why, if it hadn't been for a streak of bad luck that was just due to break, they wouldn't have won a pot! He'd make 'em slug small!

Hurrying to his stateroom Harry tore open his shirt and from a concealed money-belt took a thick wad of bills, his movements furtive. The city was crumbling—there would be cast out from the furnace a distorted, ugly thing—a criminal. Suddenly the door opened, and the boy shrank back with a cry as Ethel entered. In one swift glance the hideous truth was revealed to her, and with a cry of horror she caught at his arm.

"For God's sake, Harry, don't!" she cried, and then followed a wild jumble of prayers, accusations, and entreaties. "Think what you are doing! You will be an embroiler—a thief!"

Sobbingly she paused for a moment, the boy was wayed by reason and conscience, and all might yet have been well had the distracted girl not gone on.

"You will be disgraced. I will be the wife of a convict—no, I will not, I will leave you! If you go out of that door I will leave you—despite you—leave you!" she gasped.

His anger flared blindingly. "Leave me! I wish to God you would—good riddance!" he snarled, and brutally throwing her aside, dashed from the room.

For a moment the girl remained as though frozen, the sob choked back. Then with white face and tragic eyes she hurried out.

It was already late, and Cecil was the only passenger remaining on the moonlit deck. Suddenly he started up, leaped forward, and grasped the form of a girl as she poised on the rail. With gentle firmness he drew her to a chair and sat down beside her.

"Why did you stop me? It would have been over now!" Ethel cried, and buried her face in her hands.

Cecil placed a soothing hand upon her arm. "It probably isn't so bad as all that," he said gently. "Just you tell me the whole story."

And presently she had done so. Cecil's face was very grave and thoughtful, but his head was bowed and he did not see. He spoke with firm and convincing encouragement.

"I'll graduate this year, some way," he said. "You say you'll wait for me?" "Yes," she answered, with the faith of a child, and believing words were all that counted.

Meanwhile Harry had found Messrs. Badger and Marks, and those gentlemen had exchanged glances of delight as they observed the denouement of the bill. The boy enthusiastically displayed. And even as Lord Cecil was calmly drawing a rug over the girl's feet on deck Harry, with starry eyes and roiling brain, stumbled into all at once, and fell in a stupor upon the floor. Messrs. Badger and Marks had had a pleasant

FOOD SOURING IN STOMACH CAUSES INDIGESTION, GAS

"Pape's Diapepsin" ends all stomach distress in five minutes.

Wonder what upset your stomach— which portion of the food did the damage—do you? Well, don't bother. If your stomach is in a revolt; if sour, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented into stubborn lumps; head dizzy and aches; belch gases and acids and eructate undigested food; breath foul, tongue coated—just take a little Pape's Diapepsin and in five minutes you wonder what became of the indigestion and distress.

Millions of men and women today know that it is needless to have a bad stomach. A little Diapepsin occasionally keeps this delicate organ regulated and they eat their favorite foods without fear.

If your stomach doesn't take care of your liberal diet without rebellion; if your food is a damage instead of a help, remember the quickest, surest, most harmless relief is Pape's Diapepsin which costs only fifty cents for a large case at drug stores. Its truly wonderful—it digests food and sets things straight, so gently and easily that it is really astonishing. Please for your sake don't go on and on with a weak, disordered stomach; it's so unnecessary.

straight for Cecil's face.

The blow staggered him, and a dark blotch appeared on his cheek, but without a word Cecil turned and hurried indignantly away. Ethel stared wonderingly, then a great joyousness swept over her face.

"Oh, Harry," she cried, and laid her hand against his breast.

In his stateroom Cecil gravely inspected his bruised cheek. Suddenly the pupils of his eyes contracted—reflected in the glass, he had seen the door behind him silently open, two crumpled figures glide in, and the door closed. The figures crept toward him—in the hand of one was a vicious knife, and the second man, was raising a blackjack for a stunning blow. Cecil's hand shot out, and he stepped aside and turned at the same instant. A second later Messrs. Marks and Badger were looking into the muzzle of an unwavering revolver. Without a word Cecil dismissed the would-be assassins, locked the door, pocketed the key, and snatched shut the lid of a steamer trunk in which he had placed knife, blackjack, and his own revolver. A look of savage joy came over the faces of the crooks as they realized that, two to one, they were locked in the room with Cecil, unarmed. They crouched, and crept forward.

"All ready," Cecil said grimly. Twenty minutes later Cecil unlocked the door and allowed to crawl out two bloody, battered wretches, too sick to even wonder at the meaning of his parting remark, his almost apologetic, "I think I really owe myself that, y'know."

When alone, Cecil surveyed the devastated stateroom with a grim smile—then the grimace vanished, and the smile was very tender. A sweetness filled the disordered place with illusive perfume, a slender, girlish form, with shining eyes stood mistily beside him, and he seemed to feel upon his bruised cheek the light touch of cool, soft lips.

To be continued. Watch for Chapter Ten.

RUSSIA HAS PROVEN FRIENDSHIP FOR U. S.

Tracing the historic friendship of Russia for the United States, with especial emphasis on the fleets sent under sealed orders during the Civil War to be placed at President Lincoln's disposal if England and France interfered in favor of the Confederacy, Mr. J. G. Patterson writes to the New York Herald:

What has been and is now the attitude of Russia toward the United States? Is that great country our friend or our enemy?

This to my mind is an exceedingly interesting question in view of the new international political conditions brought about by the great war and more especially now that the good will of the people of this country is being sought after by the leading nations of Europe.

It has always been a sad of Russia that any purpose she has once formed is never abandoned until consummated. More than eight centuries ago she sent an army of eleven thousand troops against Constantinople and failed to attain the goal, but never for one moment has she faltered from that time to this in her purpose, which now seems nearer accomplishment than ever before. Steadfastness of purpose would therefore seem to be a well defined attribute of the Russian government, and should we find that Russia had a purpose toward the United States detrimental to our interests or that on the contrary, she was friendly and wanted nothing but our friendship it would be well to remember that Russian characteristic of steadfastness. What then, has Russia done for or against us since the declaration of independence? Even if we agree with the great Napoleon that "history is a fiction agreed upon," the history is the only source from which we can search the past.

On November 30, 1776, General Sir William Howe, in command of the British forces and stationed in New York, wrote to Lord George Germain that 15,000 more troops were needed to subjugate the rebels and that he hoped to get them from Russia, Hanover or other German states. We know General Howe did not get his troops from Russia then or ever, but we all know whence came the Hessians.

In 1780 Catherine II, indignant over the attitude of England toward the United States and neutral ships, promulgated Russia's famous armed neutrality rescript that gave great comfort to our distressed fellow countrymen of those days. England finally, in 1781, offered to cede to Russia, Alaska, a naval station in the Mediterranean, in exchange for Russia's aid, but the offer was refused by Catherine II. The attitude of France and Russia at this period brought about, more than anything else, the introduction and passage of the resolution through our Congress that has been the foundation stone of our foreign relations ever since, and which was epitomized by Washington in the following familiar words—"friendly relations with all, entangling relations with none."

In November, 1823, Count Woronzow, Russian Ambassador at London, approached Rufus King, American Minister to Great Britain, on the subject of forming closer relations with Russia and expressed the most friendly feelings of his government toward the United States.

Levitt Harris, of Pennsylvania, was the first Consul appointed to St. Petersburg. He personally reported to President Jefferson that, although only a Consul, he had received "flattering attention" and most signal proofs of regard for the United States.

Emperor Alexander was a careful student of the constitution of the United States and a great admirer of President Jefferson. On August 28, 1805, with his own hand, he wrote President Jefferson, congratulating him on his re-election to the Presidency. On November 5, 1809, at a private audience, the Russian Emperor received ed for the first time an American Minister, John Quincy Adams and said to him:—"Between Russian and the United States there could be no interference of interests and no cause for discussion, at that by means of commerce the two nations might be of great use to each other, and it was his desire to give the greatest extension and facility to this means of mutual benefit." To my mind this statement of Russia's position by Emperor Alexander in 1809, is as though it was spoken yesterday by the voice of the present Emperor.

President Madison in his address to Congress November 5, 1811, said: "Our foreign relations remain without unfavorable changes; with Russia they are on the best of friendship."

During 1813 Russia made an offer of mediation to bring about peace between England and the United States which was absolutely rejected by England.

So much then for the attitude of Russia during the periods covered by the War of the Revolution and the War of 1812, which leaves nothing to be desired. Our Civil War, however, gave birth to an event in all respects unique in the history of nations, and established forever a warm spot in the hearts of all true Americans toward our great and loyal friend, Russia. In 1862, Napoleon III, obsessed by his mad dream of an empire in Mexico, which resulted in the tragic death of Maximilian, attempted to form a coalition between France, England and Russia for the purpose of recognition of the Confederate States of America, as the disruption of the United States would favor its plans in Mexico and quite possibly lead to the recovery of Louisiana, sold to the United States by the First Napoleon. This proposition was indignantly rejected at once by Russia, and we find that a letter written by William C. Gladstone, one time British Prime Minister, to Henry Clives, of New York, on May 30, 1869, disclaiming that England at any time ever considered the French suggestions.

Russia apparently was not satisfied that the effort of France would not succeed and in September, 1869, there suddenly appeared in New York Harbor a great Russian fleet commanded by Admiral S. Lessofsky under sealed orders, to be opened only in the event of united action by France and England against the United States.

A similar fleet from Russia soon afterward arrived in the harbor of San Francisco. These fleets, after remaining for several months, officers and men in the meantime being coasted and fettered to their heart's content, finally steamed away with the sealed orders still unbroken.

In the "Life of Thurlow Weed" will be found the answer to the one-time mystery of those sealed orders from no less a personage than Chancellor Prince Gortschakoff, who stated years afterward that the Russian Admiral had orders from Emperor Alexander, written in his own hand, immediately to report himself and fleet to President Lincoln for orders in the event that England or France interfered.

History does not record anything greater than this event, for Russia offered of her best, freely, without price and without expectation of reward.

Much has been written to disclaim this act and to try to show that the fleets were here merely on a junketing mission and that the sealed orders were a myth. Considering however, the acts of the Russian government from the time of the Revolution until the date of this event, there is every evidence to show that the true history of the fleet's arrival is as I have written.

"We now come to the Alaska purchase. Why did Russia sell us that great and wonderfully rich country for a beggarly pittance? For the same reason as her previous selfish friendship.

WAR TAX MUST BE PAID AT ONCE

The following U. S. Internal Revenue special taxes under the Act of October 23, 1914, are now due from November 1, 1914, to June 30, 1915, and must be paid within the current month to avoid the penalties imposed by law; the rates of tax given being for the annual amounts, only two-thirds of which amounts are now due for the period given above:

Brokers $30; pawnbrokers $50; commercial brokers $20; proprietors of theatres, museums or concert halls, from $25 to $100, according to seating capacity; proprietors of circuses $100; other public exhibitions $10; bowling alleys or billiard rooms, $5 for each alley or table; commission merchants $20; dealers in leaf tobacco $5 to $24; dealers in tobacco whose annual receipts from sales exceed $200, $4.80.

The tax is figured for the eight months ending June 30, 1915, in all cases; for instance a dealer in tobacco who is taxed $1.80 a year will be obliged to pay only $1.20; and the other taxes will be likewise figured on this basis.

Each taxpayer is required to file a sworn return on Form 11-A in applying for the necessary stamp, and if required to make his remittance either by certified check, money order or cash. Uncertified checks will positively not be accepted by the Government.

All persons liable to these taxes should make the sworn return on the form provided by the Government and pay the tax during November, and where the tax is not so paid as required by law the Collector is obliged to impose the penalty.

FIRST SNOW STORM ACCOMPANIES GALE

The first real snow storm of the season struck this city on Thursday night and the indications are that it will create a record for itself for this time of the year.

The storm started Thursday forenoon with a southeast storm, and there was a heavy fall of rain during the afternoon and early evening. Shortly after nine o'clock the wind hauled to the northeast and the rain changed to snow and in a remarkable short time the ground was white. It was a gale and a blizzard of snow and at midnight there was nearly two inches of snow on the ground, and it looked as though it would continue.

The high wind drove in an extra high tide, but no damage was reported. On the coast a high sea was running but shipping had sufficient warning and several coasters made the lower harbor early in the day.

CARRANZA'S FORCES SURRENDER TO VILLA

Washington, Nov. 19.—Two thousand Carranza troops voluntarily surrendered to Gen. Villa when he took Leon, and other garrisons all along the line are changing allegiance to the northern chief as he marches on toward Mexico City.

American Consular Agent Carothers with Villa, reported there had been no fighting since the southward movement began, and ventured his opinion that there would be no hostilities because the rank and file of the Constitutional Army seemed to favor Villa. Leon was taken yesterday without the firing of a shot, and other reports tell of the occupation of Toluca and Guanajuato, also without resistance.

No report was received here of the alleged interruption by Villa of the telegraphic conferences between Gen. Gutierrez and Gen. Gonzalez, but it was thought in official quarters that Villa had ordered all telegraphic communication with the troops south of him to cease, so that the enemy would be unable to learn of the meaning of his forces.

The general expectation in official circles today is that Villa would reach Mexico City without much difficulty, fighting perhaps one battle as his troops clashed with those of Obregon or Gonzalez, near the capital.

Consul Stillman, reporting from Mexico City, said he regarded actual hostilities as inevitable, although some of the Generals persisted in their efforts to restore peace. Mr. Stillman added that conditions in the capital are more serious than they had been since peace parleys were inaugurated between the Aguascalientes convention and Carranza.

Official reports are awaited today from Neco, Ariz., where six persons on the American side of the border are said to have been wounded by stray bullets during fighting between the Carranza garrison and Villa's investing forces. An American customs inspector and a trooper of the 10th Cavalry were among those hit.

REFUGEE PRIESTS AND NUNS

Misunderstanding About Who Shall Pay for Bringing Them North Being Straightened Out.

Washington, Nov. 19.—Misunderstanding over whether the Government or the Catholic Church Extension Society would pay for bringing refugee priests and nuns out of Vera Cruz brought forth an exchange of telegrams today between Sec. Garrison and Pres. Francisco G. Kelley of the society and left the issue undecided.

Pres. Kelley telegraphed that the society undertook the work with the understanding that the Government had declined. Sec. Garrison had announced receipt of a telegram from Brig. Gen. Punston saying the society had undertaken it. Meanwhile the transport San Marcos, on which Gen. Punston had planned to send the refugees, has arrived in the United States.

Gen. Punston will make a further report, which is expected to decide who will transport the churchmen.

EVEN CROSS, SICK CHILDREN LOVE SYRUP OF FIGS

If feverish, bilious, constipated, give fruit laxative at once.

Don't scold your fretful, peevish child. See if tongue is coated; this is a sure sign his little stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with sour waste. When listless, pale, feverish, full of cold, breath bad, throat sore, doesn't eat, sleep or act naturally, has stomach-ache, indigestion, diarrhoea, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," and in a few hours all the foul waste, the sour bile and fermenting food passes out of the bowels and you have a well and playful child again. Children love this harmless "Fruit Laxative," and mothers can rest easy after giving it, because it never fails to make their little "insides" clean and sweet.

Keep it handy, Mother! A little given today saves a sick child tomorrow, but get the genuine. Ask your druggist for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly on the bottle. Remember there are counterfeiters sold here, so surely look and see that yours is made by the "California Fig Syrup Company." Stand back with contempt any other fig syrup.

A Sociological Honeymoon.

A wealthy Boston couple have just returned from a "sociological" honeymoon feeling that they have learned a great deal about a side of life with which they before were unfamiliar. After their marriage they spent some time in the Canadian woods and then went to Rochester, N. Y., where they took the position of poor people looking for work. The bride and groom are college graduates, and the bride in telling why they spent their honeymoon in this way said: "First, and primarily we were very desirous of getting down to the economic fundamentals of life as an introduction to our married life. Secondly, we wished to investigate the facts of unemployment and living conditions of the average American family—that is to say, the family whose income varies from $600 to $1,000 a year."

To accomplish this end the couple lived for two weeks in a boarding house and then hired a room in a cheap lodging house and did light housekeeping for six weeks, both seeking employment in the meantime. The bride tells of her experience as a waiter in a restaurant, as a clerk in a five and ten cent store and as a player of tagline in stores and moving picture houses; the hours in all cases being long, the work hard and the pay small. Her husband made nearly 100 applications for positions, varying from pit boy in a bowling alley to teacher of mathematics in an evening school, but was unsuccessful in most cases. He finally secured a position as bookkeeper which did not take all of his time, but which "in time might have developed into a good job."

The "honeymoon" ended at last, and it is now fair to ask what it all amounted to? There was nothing new in this experiment. Men have tramped the highways with hoboes and gone to prison in order to learn at "first hand" of the lives lived by tramps and prisoners, and in some instances have found a market for their "information" in the form of magazine articles or books. But who ever heard of any practical good coming from such exploits on the part of the wealthy seeking adventure in a mild form?

Enough is known of the hardships and struggles of the very poor, for many of which they themselves are responsible, cruel as it may seem to say this. What is needed is something to "lift them out of themselves," as it were, and this will never be discovered by people of wealth and leisure mixing with them for a few weeks for the fun and novelty of the experience.

The Chicago stockyards have been released from quarantine and it is to be hoped and believed that the worst of this foot and mouth disease trouble is over. But it is not too late for a little jump in meat prices yet. The packers are very familiar with the old saying, "A poor excuse is better than none," and are liable to offer the trouble they have been put to as an excuse for joggling the figures up a trifle.

When one reads of the awful sufferings of the men in the Old World war—from the ravages of battle and the rigors of approaching winter—he is inclined to question whether the best time has been selected for the absolute prohibition of the use of stimulants in the ranks. Few war veterans, no matter how abstemious, would endorse so radical a step.

Naval officers think they have devised means of safeguarding ships in fog by wireless, and the plan is to be tested at Cape Cod. All will hope for the best, yet it will not be forgotten that there are railroad accidents in spite of the abundance of "system" to prevent them. The human element still looms large in connection with accidents on land and sea.

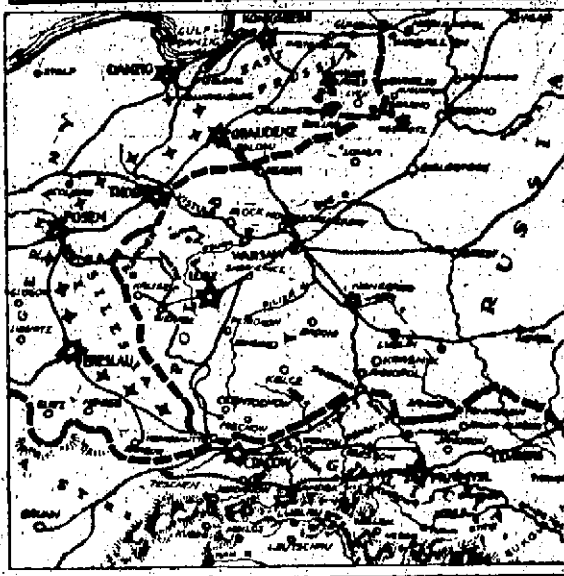

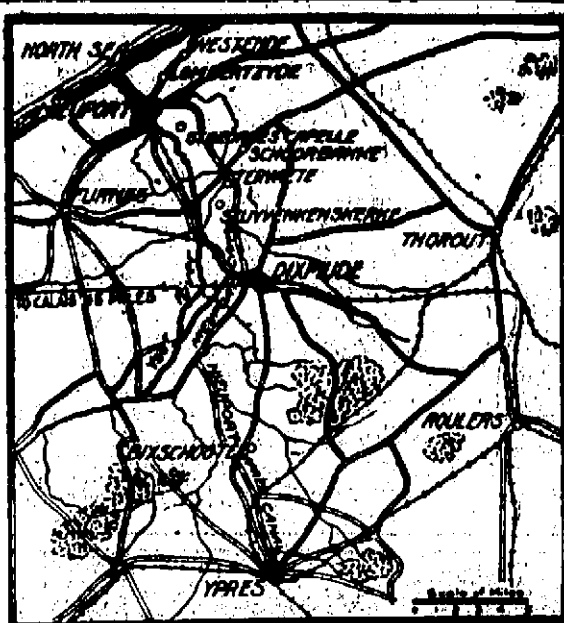

New England used to consider itself headquarters for snow in the eastern part of the country, but it now has to take off its hat to Northern New York, where more than three inches fell one day this week, while New Englanders were standing around and saying "it looks like snow."

Senator Tillman is not excited over the unpreparedness of the United States for war. He thinks by the time the foreign countries get through with the present tussle this country will have the biggest navy in the world.

The Panama canal may not be a paying investment, reckoned in dollars and cents, but it is bringing in some money. The tolls collected from August 1 to November 1 amounted to more than $735,000.

Out in Oklahoma a man has been flogged by masked ruffians for selling cotton at what they considered too low a figure. But the cost of living will never be brought down in that way.

New War Maps of Western and Eastern Theaters of Conflict.

The upper map shows the battlefield of Flanders, where the severest fighting of the war is in progress. After their capture of Antwerp the Germans determined to strike for the coastlines of Dunkirk and Calais, France, so that they would be within hitting distance of England. They have tried for weeks to pierce the lines of the allies at Nieuport, Dixmude and Ypres and intervening points. The lower map shows the eastern theater of war. Here the Germans are reported to be making a firm stand against the invasion of the Russians in East Prussia, Silesia and Galicia.

THE STATE PRESS

FOR DISHES AND LAUNDRY PURPOSES.

The proposition to tap Merry-meeting Pond near the east end of Lake Winnepesaukee, and convey the water through pipes, to furnish for domestic and fire purposes in Portsmouth, Dover, Rochester, Somersworth, still hangs fire. The project is a big undertaking and the officials of all four cities kick on the proposed water rates. In order to ensure the success of the scheme it will be necessary to contract with at least two of these cities. Rochester has a fairly good water supply but would like more pressure for the fire department purposes, and while the supplies in Somersworth, Dover and Portsmouth are not entirely adequate and all that could be desired, the inhabitants of those cities do not use much water except for washing dishes and laundry purposes.—Laconia Democrat.

HE NEVER WAS NEEDED MORE

It ought to be a source of comfort and satisfaction for the people of this state to realize that the United States senate is assured of the able and patriotic services of Senator Jacob H. Gallinger for six years more. He was never needed more in that body than he is today.—Somersworth Free Press.

CAN TRUST COMMON SENSE OF THE PEOPLE

New Hampshire, perhaps as much as any state in the Union has witnessed the result of prejudice run riot against railroads—of the results of attack upon attack against railroads, simply because they were railroads. The fallacy of knocking a big industry simply because it was big, but there is evidence of the dawning of a better understanding between the rank and file of the people and the business community, and in no way is this better sentiment shown than in the repeal of the full crew law by the people of Missouri at the recent election.

The "full crew" law compelled railway trains run in Missouri to be operated with no less than a certain number of men, the number being prescribed by the statute. This law, in its operations, imposed needless burdens upon the railroads, requiring them to employ many more men than were necessary for the operation of trains, and added greatly to the expense of maintaining the roads without corresponding benefit to the public. The burden finally became so great that under the referendum law in Missouri the question of whether this train law should continue in force or be repealed was submitted to the people and the people repealed it by an overwhelming majority.

This sensible and equitable verdict is attracting attention throughout the country, affording conclusive evidence as it does of the soundness of the judgment of the people and their fairness in a matter so susceptible to misleading and wrong conclusions by reason of appeals to prejudice instead of reason.

The repeal of the "full crew" law having been accomplished by the sovereign will of the people carries with it far more significance and force than as though it had been done by the legislature. The question was put squarely up to the people and they showed that they could look a railroad question squarely in the face and render a righteous decision.

This proves that the people are to be trusted.—Manchester Mirror.

THE RETAILERS' OPPORTUNITY

Every time a manufacturer of a national product places his advertising in this newspaper he is helping the local retailers who handle that article. He is making people familiar with the name and brand and the article's uses. He is creating a desire that the retailer can turn into definite sales with profit to himself. When the retailer sees a national product advertised in the newspaper he is only using ordinary business sense by putting the goods in the window and doing all he can to pull trade his direction.

AMERICAN SYMPATHIES IN THE WAR

Montana to California.

In the Mountain and Pacific Division of the States, to begin with Montana, a Butte editor whose policy is "neutral, but opposed to German militarism," observes that "for its size Butte probably has a larger foreign element than any other town in the United States, and the sentiment is strongly with the Allies." Bozeman also favors the Allies. An editor in Helena who openly defends the Allies says that the community also is in favor of them, although "some Germans are very aggressive in patriotism, but most of them admit that the Kaiser is wrong."

Crossing into Idaho, we find in such cities as Boise, Coeur d'Alene, and Twin Falls that the newspapers practice absolute neutrality while the people are disposed to favor the Allies.

In Wyoming we hear from Rawlins of an editorial stand against "German militarism," which is a world menace at all times, and their reason therefore why "the community stands up for the Allies." In Colorado the word comes from Denver that "we are all striving to live up to the President's neutrality proclamation." In the same city a Swedish-American paper declares for the Germans. "Colorado Springs is wholly pro-Ally," says an editor whose columns take the same attitude. At Grand Junction a pro-Ally editor says that "sentiment is 'about equally divided,' while at Durango the general mind is described as neutral.

Also neutral, according to one report, is Tucson, Arizona, although another says that the general feeling favors the Allies, and this writer adds that "of course there are some Germans and people of German descent who favor Germany, but they are comparatively few." A mixed state of opinion is ascribed moreover to Phoenix and to Prescott, while Bisbee and Yuma are said to be distinctly pro-Ally.

Going into Utah we find complete pro-Ally sympathy in Brigham City, Heber City and Logan; while a prominent editor in Salt Lake City writes that his attitude is neutral, though "the sentiment of the community is very largely in favor of the Allies, due no doubt to the fact that the Teutonic element is far in the minority."

Nevada comes out strongly for the Allies in Las Vegas and also Winnemucca, in which town an editor writes that "we all like the German people, but not Kaiser Billy and his militarism."

To enter the Pacific Coast States, beginning with Washington, we hear from "near-neutral" editors in Yakima and Ellensburg that the community leans toward the Allies. However, while this statement is also said to be "probably true" of Walla Walla, still "there are many on the other side." From Spokane it is reported that "general sentiment is liberal and willing to hear both sides; but much criticism of Germany's treatment of the Belgians is heard. The Kaiser is held by many to be responsible for this and for the war. But the people of Germany have plenty of friends." One Tacoma editor says that the feeling in favor of the Allies is "less pronounced than it was shortly after the war began." And another writes that "lately sentiment has changed very noticeably; it is not changing in favor of Germany so much as it is taking a neutral ground."

Finally, from Bellingham, in the far northwest of the State, we have word of an editor who is a German supporter and who says that the feeling in his town is "for the Germans! Always."

In Oregon, also, German editorials and public support are found at Eugene and at La Grande, while the Allies are said "to have the best of it" in Portland, Albany, and Grant's Pass. In Salem we hear that "the natives of the belligerent nations generally favor the country they have emigrated from. Americans seem to be taking no sides; but more expressions of sympathy for the Allies, especially the Belgians, are heard."

The fact that the lineage of people inclines their sympathies more directly than any other impulse is remarked by a San Francisco editor. We read that "no one could answer the question as to the general sentiment of the city. San Francisco is very cosmopolitan and contains great numbers of all nationalities." Another view of San Francisco concedes that perhaps pro-Ally sympathizers are in the prepon-

CURRENT OPINION

Urges Distribution of Wealth in Wages Rather Than Charities

The church calls upon her laymen to work for a true spirit of justice and right dealing in our industrial and commercial life. When we have made every right allowance for difference of reward according to difference and quality of service WE ALL KNOW THAT THE PRESENT DISTRIBUTION OF WEALTH IS A DISPROPORTIONATE AND UNREASONABLE ONE.

We know that the excessive riches of the man who has too much are as bad and that they are often morally worse for him than poverty is for the man who has too little.

WAGES ARE FAR BETTER THAN CHARITIES. IT IS FAR BETTER FOR ALL THAT SURPLUS WEALTH SHOULD BE PAID OUT IN HONEST PAY FOR HONEST SERVICE THAN THAT ENORMOUS FORTUNES SHOULD BE PILED UP IN THE HANDS OF PARTICULAR INDIVIDUALS, EVEN THOUGH THESE FORTUNES SHOULD BE LATER DISPENSED IN GIFTS AND PHILANTHROPIES.

This is not saying that wealth should be equally divided. I neither say this nor believe this. But I do say that wealth should be more equitably distributed than it is at present. It is now the splendid opportunity of our Christian financial and commercial leaders to lead the way in making the distribution of wealth among us a more sane and equitable one, SO AS TO SECURE FOR EACH WORKER A DUE REWARD FOR HIS SERVICE AND TO GIVE LABOR IN EVERY DEPARTMENT ITS FULL AND RIGHTFUL SHARE.—By Rev. Dr. William T. Manning, Rector of Trinity Church, New York.

derance. Yet it is admitted that the "Germans are very aggressive," while "the strong Irish element seems divided." From San Diego we hear also of a mixed population making a mixed public opinion. One editor writes that "the Germans are loudest in the protests," but declares that all sides accuse him of partiality, although he is trying to be neutral. Another San Diego editor, whose paper supports the Germans, says that "at first the community was hostile to the German side, but that it is now veering and seems rather to favor the Germans." From Chicago, Ill., the report comes that the Allies are more kindly regarded. In Santa Barbara we hear from one source that he city is "pro-Ally," and from another that it is neutral. Neutrality, moreover, is ascribed to Fresno and to Bakersville, because, as one writer says, "we are sincerely for world peace, and we consider absolute neutrality the first international duty of every citizen and of every newspaper in the United States at the present time."

BOSTON LETTER

PEOPLES' OPINION

Good Advice

Editor The Herald:—In a recent issue of the Chronicle I noticed a communication signed Puritan, in which he wished to know how many persons in our city "were entitled to the title of Colonel, and if there was any law to prohibit Tom, Dick and Harry from posing as Colonels." In reply to Puritan I wish to say that the only bona fide Colonel I now know of who earned his title by service to his country is Col. Dana. We have several Colonels who have vainly served "their state on the staff of various Governors, who have risked their lives many times on the dance floor at the inaugural balls, and at the various receptions incident to the administration. We also have other titled gentlemen, Colonels, Captains, and Honorables, who are rightly listed under the head of Jokes. Their titles were mostly bestowed by the same evening paper that Puritan refers to. It would seem to an ordinary citizen that a man who is entitled to the title of Colonel would value it enough not to prefix it to the name of every town joke who came along.

Yours,

PILGRIM

Boston, Nov. 20.—Several of the Massachusetts delegates to the 46th annual convention of the National Woman Suffrage Association at Nashville returned to Boston today by a special train. "The Massachusetts delegates feel that the convention was wholly successful and inspiring," said Mrs. Thomas Crowley. "Mrs. Maud Wood Park, of course did not at any time stand as a candidate for the national presidency and Dr. Anna Shaw was unopposed. I have never seen a more orderly meeting or heard more clear, concise speaking than I heard on the floor of that convention. In one particular it was vastly different from a similar gathering of men. All the delegates were there, and remained. They attended every session, whereas men delegates are usually to be found smoking in the corridors. At the final election 203 votes were cast, and only one had to be thrown out, showing women know how to vote."

Boston, Nov. 20.—The establishment of schools for the training of prison officers by the Federal government, which he said should lead all the states in the field of prison administration instead of following the more progressive ones, was advocated by Chairman Randall of the Massachusetts Prison Commission in an address on the "New Penology" before the Woman's Department of the Massachusetts and Rhode Island section of the National Civic Federation. He pointed out the lack of uniformity in the prison legislation of the various states, some of which are backward, stated that past months have proved ineffective and should be replaced by new, and suggested that the rehabilitation of prisoners requires salaried ability, training and experience in those in charge of them.

Not for years has dancing been so popular in this city as at the present time.

CONSTITUTIONALISTS REPLY TO CARDINAL O'CONNELL

Claims There is No Masonic Conspiracy Organized to Oppose the Catholic Clergy That Has Seen Fit to Take Part in the Politics of Mexico.

The first reply yet made by the Mexican constitutionalists to those who have criticized them for their attacks on the Catholic clergy and church property was given to the New York Herald in an exclusive statement from Senor R. Zubaran Capmany, head of the constitutionalist agency here.

The statement is in the form of a direct reply to Cardinal O'Connell's attack upon the constitutionalists. Senor Zubaran defends the native Mexican clergy, but strongly condemns what he terms the "imported clergy," who, he says, have used their calling as a cloak to sustain privilege and oppression.

Here is Senor Zubaran's statement: "The unrestrained statement of His Eminence Cardinal O'Connell, published in the papers today, demands a reply, notwithstanding His Eminence chose to hurl insults at the constitutionalists rather to advance reasons in support of his position.

"The American Catholics have been misinformed both as regards the conduct of a large portion of the Mexican Catholic clergy, principally those of wealth, and the policy of the constitutionalists in regard to religious liberty in my country.

"It is necessary as Cardinal O'Connell says, to make known the truth and the truth is this: The Mexican Catholic clergy is divided into two groups; the native clergy, self-denying and poor, who are in charge of the small country parishes, and the imported clergy, generally coming from Europe, who have great influence in the episcopacies, bishoprics, and revenue earning churches and who minister to the wants of the higher social class.

"This first group has always been devoted to its sacred calling and in the struggles waged for progress and liberty has always been on the side of the people. To this group belong Hidalgo and Ocampo in the past, and today numbers in its ranks Mgr. Parades and the greater portion of the poor clergy.

"The second group has always been associated with the reactionaries and worked against liberty; has defended not the principle of religious liberty, but on the contrary has championed intolerance and privilege. It has always desired to consider itself a privileged class and has been the cause of much blood being shed in our country since it obtained its independence. To this group belongs Bishop Lavastola of Puebla and other archbishops and bishops, who through the governmental Ministers Urrutia and Tamariz helped Huerta to power and assisted in maintaining him there.

"In 1822 this group of the Catholic clergy were responsible for the fulfillment of the charge from that day to this have been legally incapable of acquiring new properties."

A BOOM FOR "UNCLE CY"

New York Republicans talk enthusiastically of running their newly elected governor, Mr. Whitman, for President of the United States, while Ohio Republicans are mentioning Frank P. Willis, another successful gubernatorial candidate in the same connection. Either of these men may be all right, but why not start a presidential boom for Uncle Joe Cannon or Hon. C. Suloway, who are much more widely known, and have a longer string of political victories to their credit than these mushroom statesmen from New York and Ohio. — Atlantic Monthly.

Life in the Garden of Eden.

The inhabitants of Eden plainly lived without toil. They were born to that leisure for which we strive so hard in this workaday world. So far as the man was concerned, the sting of the expulsion was the fact that he had to go forth and eat bread in the sweat of his face. Jehovah did not enforce this sentence at hard labor by putting a guard over Adam. Eve was not placed in charge, nor yet the wily serpent. The offender was merely driven forth from the garden that was full of trees. The trees had made it paradise. Every tree that was pleasant to the sight and good for food was there. The inhabitants walked about in the comfortable shade and ate. When thirst arose there were the juices of fruits and palm wine. The spontaneous products of the garden even supplied the first demand for clothes. On that bitter day of expulsion these erstwhile happy harvesters of treetops were driven forth from this rich and fruitful shade, driven to the fields to eat the herb of the field and to win bread by the sweat of their faces. — Atlantic Monthly.

A Cure For Snake Bites.

Many are the curious methods adopted for curing snake bites, but surely none can be more so than a way of which our Bhavangar correspondent informs us. Two natives in a village near that station were, he says, brought back to life after being bitten by a cobra.

The victims were seated on the ground and there held, while from a height of sixteen feet gullions of hot water were poured on their heads. Presently, according to the correspondent, the victims "took a new lease of life," and are as well as though they had never been in the jaws of death at all.

The explanation to this "cure" probably is that the snake, as often happens, bit its victims, but injected no poison into them. Thus the men were merely terrified and continued to be frightened until the pain caused by the douche of hot water gave them something else to think about. — Civil and Military Gazette.

MC ELWAIN COMPANY GETS TWO MILLION SHOE ORDER FROM FRANCE

Manchester, Nov. 19.—Through its New York selling agents, Morse & Rogers of Duane and Hudson streets, New York city, the W. H. McElwain company, shoe manufacturers of this city, has placed one of the very largest orders for shoes ever given to this country.

The contract, which was signed yesterday, was for $2,000,000 worth of shoes for the armies of the allied troops, and delivery is to be made not later than the 15th of January 1915.

The order is a direct result of the endeavors of the McElwain company to secure some of the business which it was certain would proceed from the warring countries. Within two weeks the company has a very large order, which went to a firm in Massachusetts, this last concern, having considerably underbid the local company.

It is understood that the price asked for the shoes, which are manufactured exactly in accordance with the specifications furnished by the French governmental agents, is $2.60 per pair, and as the leather is unfinished and the shoes built to wear and not for looks, the profit is very great. Hence the tendency to bid fairly high and the chances of losing out in the bidding on account of the wide latitude allowed in pricing.

Daniel P. Morse, head of the Morse & Rogers partnership, which represents the McElwain firm in New York, stated that while all this immense trade was going on with foreign nations, the American trade would also feel the effects by way of higher prices. He said that the extensive purchases of leather by French and British agents for other than shoe uses from dealers throughout the country was the largest ever known in the trade, and that as a result considerable difficulty was experienced in obtaining sufficient quantities of leather for manufacturing purposes. "Our mills turn out forty thousand shoes a day for the trade generally," said Mr. Morse, "so that with this heavy French order on our hands we are running our plants at full capacity, with extra crews of men. While we are daily diverting a part of our output toward filling this war order, we have our general trade to consider, but this is rendered extremely difficult because of the scarcity of leather which the French and British agents are buying in heavy quantities for war purposes. Naturally this is likely to affect prices for American consumers if the existing situation continues."

Mr. Morse said that many other shoe manufacturers had received large orders for their product from the French and British governments and that there was tremendous activity just now in that line of industry in this country. Hide and leather dealers admitted yesterday that purchases of that material in this country by foreign buyers had been most extensive in the last few weeks and that the output of the American tanneries is in great demand.

NO FRICTION IN NAVY DEPARTMENT.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—Following the publication this morning of a report that Franklin D. Roosevelt, Assistant Secretary of the Navy, had come to opposition with his chief, Mr. Daniels, Secretary of the Navy, over the question of increasing the personnel of the navy, Mr. Roosevelt today issued this statement:

"I was much amused this morning at the attempt of a republican newspaper to create the impression that there were dissensions in the demure ranks at Washington by printing a story that the Assistant Secretary of the Navy had recommended 18,000 more men and the Secretary of the Navy had disapproved the recommendation. I have not recommended 18,000 more men, nor would I consider it within my province to make any recommendation on the matter one way or the other. There is not the slightest disagreement or misunderstanding of any kind with the Secretary of the Navy on this or any other matter."

EXTRA FINE BILL AT MUSIC HALL

The two vaudeville acts at Music Hall for the remainder of the week are unusually good drawing cards.

At 11. WED. "That Funny Fat Fellow" as a minute is a big hit. His funny faces and his jokes keep the audience in a continual roar. It is a sure cure for the blues. If you've got them come and see him and forget your troubles. "Laugh and the world laughs with you, snore and you snore alone."

Miss Dena Cooper and Company present the intensely interesting dramatic playlet, "The Confession." The following is the plot: A murder has been committed, and a suspect wrongfully accused and imprisoned. The wife of the imprisoned man knows that her husband is innocent, and has very certain information as to the real murderer, a certain "man-about-town" with a very shady reputation.

The action of the sketch takes place in the apartments of this "man-about-town," to which the woman, accompanied by a detective, has gained access during the man's absence. The woman's plan is to make love to the man, and gain his confession. The detective gets himself. When the man enters, the woman explains that she is a companion to one of his sweethearts, and suggests a drink. She is very attractive and he is perfectly willing to carry on the flirtation. Warned by the drinks he commences to make love to her; she desists.

At this point the man who committed the murder, although she claims she never met the man. Through a cleverly arranged dialogue, the man tries to show her that her love is misplaced, as the man failed to not the murderer. She asks for proof, and to win her love, the real murderer becomes himself. The detective enters and "covers" his exit.

A rapid series of turning tables, through the detective's cleverness, the excitement of again overpowering the murderer, his attempt to again escape, only to be shot down, furnishes a very thrilling dramatic climax that holds the entire audience in their seats with tense excitement.

ABOUT 60 MINES HAVE COME ASHORE.

The Hagen, via London, Nov. 19.—Holland's difficult position as a result of the European war is shown by our week's reports from the coast and frontiers. Along the coasts 60 mines of French and British make have come ashore and, exploding, caused the deaths of nine persons and the wounding of five.

Over one hundred bodies, presumably of British sailors from sunken warships, have been washed ashore and buried with military honors.

Along the southern frontier nearly 200 Belgians who had been hiding from the Germans surrendered to the Dutch army. They crossed the frontier in civilian clothes and then put on their uniforms, which they carried in bags, and claimed protection in the Dutch international detention camps, saying that otherwise they would starve. Since the beginning of the cold weather a dozen Germans have crossed into Holland, surrendered their arms and been sent to the detention camps.

On Nov. 16 a German border patrol near Nieuweschans opened fire on Dutch frontier guards, mistaking them for smugglers.

Through trains to Germany have been abolished, while the trip across the North Sea to England, which formerly required seven hours, now takes 27 hours.

LESS EMPLOYMENT IN ENGLAND SINCE WAR BEGAN.

London, Nov. 19.—Official reports of the Government show that unemployment among men is now about 1 percent less than it was at the opening of the war. These figures are somewhat surprising in view of the fact that nearly 1,000,000 men have volunteered their services and are under training in the army.

Men who have not entered the army find little trouble now in finding work, notwithstanding the fact that thousands of places vacated by men have been filled by women. The Government has hurried forward a contract for the construction of a new post-office tube, which will give employment to thousands of men for a year or more.

RUSSIANS TAKE TOWN IN VALLEY OF EUPHRATES

Petrograd, Nov. 19.—An official communication, issued by the general staff of the Caucasian Army, dated Nov. 17, states that Turkish reinforcements have been sent to the frontier of the province of Bitum, where some skirmishes have taken place. The statement continues:

"In the valley of Old Su, a column of Russians attacked and dispersed the enemy in the direction of Erzerum."

On Nov. 15 the Russian troops took by assault the town of Datal, an important point on the road of communication in the valley of the Euphrates.

"On all other points there is no change."

TURKEY SILENT ON TENNESSEE INCIDENT

Washington, Nov. 19.—Although the Navy Department continued every effort to get a further report to furnish the missing links in the chain of incidents connected with the firing upon the cruiser Tennessee's launch by the Turkish forts at Smyrna, nothing had been heard today from Capt. Decker or from Ambassador Morgenthau.

An hourly work was taken in getting the last message through to the State Department from the Ambassador at Constantinople, little information is expected from him before Capt. Decker is heard from. Yesterday he got through his first report of the incident within a few hours.

Sir, Daniels said today he would not decide on whether the North Carolina and Tennessee would remain in Turkish waters, until all the facts were known concerning the firing at Smyrna. Some naval officers have urged that the cruisers be withdrawn. Officials believe, however, that missionary interests, for which the cruisers were dispatched to Turkish waters, might hinder the vessels be retained as a moral force making for the protection of the American missions and interests.

Officials Remain Cautious

Definite details of the adventure of the cruiser Tennessee in the Gulf of Smyrna were eagerly awaited today by Administration officials who remained confident that the affair would be adjusted through channels of diplomacy.

Ambassador Morgenthau had been directed to inquire of the Turkish Government why land forces had fired on the Tennessee's launch as it steamed from Vourlah to Smyrna in investigation conditions at the American consulate, and the commanders of the Tennessee and her sister ship North Carolina in nearby waters had instructions to make no move that might embarrass the Washington government.

President Wilson was determined that the United States should not become involved in trouble with Turkey and confidence was expressed that if the Turkish officials had acted with out authority of their Government or the firing was unjustified by naval procedure, the Porte would apologize.

The Tennessee today was at Seid (Chios) in the Aegean Sea from where Capt. Decker wired his brief report. Owing to slow communication it was believed possible that a day or two might elapse before he could cable additional details and Ambassador Morgenthau report on his inquiry of the Constantinople Government.

Mahometan Activities

Protection and friendship for American citizens in Turkey frequently have been pledged by the Porte, but since that time the United States has assumed charge of diplomatic interests of the Allies with whom Turkey now is at war, resulting in conditions marked by delicate responsibilities. Activities by some Mahometan leaders caused misapprehension on the part of Americans as well as French and British subjects, and that was reported by the United States Consul at Smyrna to Ambassador Morgenthau.

When an investigation of conditions at the consulate was determined upon the Tennessee stood off at Vourlah and sent a launch on the way to Smyrna. Under navy regulations, it was said, Capt. Decker would have been justified in attempting to enter the harbor to inquire into affairs at the consulate regardless of whether Smyrna port was closed.

Apparently, however, he did not continue on his way to Smyrna, but belief was expressed that if the consulate had been in imminent danger the Tennessee could not have left the vicinity. An outstanding effect of the incident, it was believed here, would be to impress upon Ottoman authorities the anxiety felt for the safety of Americans in Turkey, where conditions have been uncertain for many months.

IN THE MOVING PICTURE WORLD

"The Idler" an old play by C. Madden (Chambers) is being pictured by the Pathé Company.

"The Chocolate Soldier" the famous comedy that made such a hit in the legitimate, has been filmed by the Pathé Feature Film Company. It is a musical comedy and is said that the picture itself is one of the worst in years. The film covers five reels.

Law Fields, the noted legitimate actor, has been secured by the World Film Corporation, and will shortly be seen in the leading role of "Old Dutch," one of Broadway's successes of the front rank.

The Selig company has just produced another of their wonderful exciting animal stories, entitled "In the Days of the Thundering Herd." The picture was taken on the historic ranch of Pawnee Bill, Pawnee, Okla., where Major Little (Pawnee Bill) maintains one of the largest buffalo ranches in existence. The buffalo have practically free range over the entire ranch, as in the days when they were permitted to roam unrestricted over the famous buffalo grounds. Pawnee Bill, who is also the chief of the Pawnee nation, has furnished the site of an entire Indian village, containing over 700 people. These Indians participated in this picture and furnish the greater part of the action, together with the herd of buffalo. In the course of the picture, the great herd of wild buffalo are stampeded by the Indians to give the desired effect.

Victor Polot, who plays an important part as Silvery Slim and the Impersonator, is having good cause to weep. In this picture he wore a diamond ring that cost $150, and he lost it.

Kathryn Williams is the recipient of all sorts of queries, but this one is the most recent. The Selig woman was asked her opinion of silk skirts and the ultra in gowns generally. In reply, she wrote the correspondent: "I try to be entirely sane myself, but if one feels real 'ultra' that is the way to dress."

The Onyx Club, an aggregation of photography fans with headquarters in Denver, Colorado, and branches in many towns in Arizona and Colorado, have recently concluded a contest in which they decided who was their favorite actress. In the silent drama, Alles Ethel Clayton, the beautiful Lubin leading lady, received the most votes. She is the sister of Marguerite Clayton, Broncho Billy's leading lady. Leo Delaney has rejoined the Vitagraph company after an extended vacation.

ONE AND ALL

We are rolling up in thousands and we're not afraid to die; We are ready with our bodies, and we've kissed our girls good bye; Don't forget what we are giving, we who have to earn our living; Don't forget what risks we're taking, we who've naught but our own making; You have told us, pretty nasty, to stand up and face the smash; Well, we're standing up in thousands —are you putting down the cash?

We're giving up our so and so, Our fun and all the rest; Your little street-tyred people go To fight their little best; Our youth, our strength will put it thro'

We'll do what England bids; But you're a part of England, too— Now, what about the Kids?

Before you call us hang-backs, face This simple piece of Krupp— You've got to fill the earner's place, What have you given up?

Old sport, you mustn't scorn the ruck And sneer 'em out of bounds, Not till the Fund that shows your pluck Is Fifty Million Pounds.

The young man gives his trashy all And gives it with his heart, The rich man of his lucky haul Gives but a tiny part.

Most precious, precious things we've quit Altho' our homes are poor; Gents, while we're standing up to hit The wolf is at the door!

We are rolling up in thousands and we've chucked our jobs behind, We have kissed our girls and mothers and we've told them not to mind; Don't forget what we are losing, we who've done our bit of choosing, Don't forget the risks we're taking, we who've got our dose of cunning; You have told us, mighty bitter, to come out and save the crash; Well, we're coming out in thousands —are you holding back the cash?

What sends our heart to zero, tho' England's calling, Come? The Baluchian Hero in workshop, dress and slam.

EUROPEAN WAR A BENEFIT

May Save Hawaiian Islands From a Severe Depression.

Washington, Nov. 20.—European war may save the Hawaiian Islands from a severe depression, Lucius B. Pinkham, governor of the territory intimated in his annual report made public today. The islands depend almost entirely upon sugar which was selling at a fabulous rate before the war, but now is very profitable. Mr. Pinkham said:

"Under the protective tariff of the United States sugar production in Hawaii was stimulated to a great development. Nearly all sugar enterprises established previous to the year 1908 had normal beginnings and gradual and healthy growth, physically and financially. In just as far as these same methods have been adhered to, these estates are sound today. In 1908 modern methods of physical optimism, valuations, capitalization, haste and anticipation of profits obtained. The failure of these methods of business has placed a burden on investors, the responsibility for which it is attempted to shift into legislation. The territory has felt the depression in the prices of sugar and such depression strikes a practically two-crop country severely. Privately it is admitted that the responsibility lies in the marked over-production in the world's sugar supply, in which Hawaii has had its full part."

"While Hawaii has some moderate relief in coffee, rice, etc. its secondary produce is canned pineapples, which industry has had such a sudden and abnormal growth that it has this season outstripped the means of caring for the field product, and where unprotected by contract the grower is hopeless as to the price and market. The hold-over stocks of 1913 are a dimme increase of the 1914 pack raise the question of whether the market is not as over-supplied that considerable time for adjustment will be required."

"At this writing the European war has caused a recent violent reaction in prices of sugar, and on the New York basis Hawaii has experienced this year a range from a minimum delivered in New York of $58.40 per short ton to $120.80 maximum. "The fact remains that sugar comprising 79.1 per cent of Hawaii's exports, and canned pineapples 11.98 per cent, a total of 91.79 per cent, are in an uncertain condition, hence their corresponding unrest and concern."

Governor Pinkham estimates the number of Japanese now in Hawaii at 89, 715 an increase of 12.60 per cent over the 1910 census. The total population is 227,391 an increase of 19.28 per cent in the four years. There are now 14,992 Filipinos in the islands. Of the population 8,373 persons are members of the U. S. army and navy.

FOR EVERY SUFFERER FROM CONSTIPATION

Rheumal salts Insures Quick and Safe Relief

The safest, most pleasant and quickest way to relieve constipation and all the misery and ill that go with it, is to dissolve a little rheumal salts in water and drink it while it is effervescent. Rheumal salts is a scientifically blended and chemically pure carbonated lithia drink that cleans out the stomach and intestines, eliminates toxins and poisons and leaves the intestinal canal clean and sweet.

If you are bothered with constipation, headaches, sallow skin, coated tongue, bad breath, indigestion, biliousness, neuralgia or rheumatism, then you need Rheumal salts. Fine for both adults and infants.

It is a uric acid solvent as well as a saline laxative. Instead of "drying" yourself with drug-forming, heart-depressing "laxative" pills and tablets, take Rheumal salts. It is delicious to the taste and acts quickly without griping or nausea. Rheumal salts is as pure as the natural laxative salts from the Mineral Springs.

The next time you need a laxative, ask your druggist for one of "drying" ones of Rheumal salts. If he hasn't the original Rheumal salts, write to the Rheumal salts Company, Minneapolis, Minn., who will be glad to see that you are supplied.

BRITISH AND FRENCH IN BRILLIANT ATTACK

Berlin, Nov. 19.—A Turkish fleet has engaged a Russian squadron, composed of two battleships and five cruisers, off Sebastopol, in the Black Sea, according to an official report reaching Berlin today from Constantinople.

One of the Russian battleships was seriously damaged, and the other vessels, with the Turkish ships in pursuit, fled to Sebastopol.

Paris, Nov. 19.—A brilliant attack by British troops and French sailors caused the Germans to evacuate Schoorbroek, Belgium, which is practically surrounded by the water from the broken dykes, according to news reaching here from the battle front.

Because of the flood only two roads were open to the town, and on one of these the British approached in two armored automobiles. It was a night attack, and the Germans in the town immediately turned their attention to them.

Meanwhile the bluejackets, who had made rafts of flat-bottomed boats crossed the water and took the Germans in the rear, forcing them to flee by the one road still left open. The Germans abandoned many guns, ammunition land stores and their dead and wounded.

There is some anxiety here as to just what has happened at Chauvencourt, a village near St. Mihiel, on the Meuse frontier. On Tuesday the French official communication reported that the French troops had occupied the western part of Chauvencourt, and yesterday's official statement said that this part of the town had been blown up, by the Germans, who apparently had mined the place before they retired.

How severely the French troops suffered by this exploit is not yet known. Chauvencourt, which contained vast French military buildings and stores, is on the right bank of the Meuse. It had been occupied by the Germans for some time and is an important link between Argonne and Metz.

The Belgian Army is drawing a supply of new officers in large part from the Belgian Civic Guard, according to a member of the Belgian War Office at Havre. The civic guard is composed of men who have seen service in the army.

Figures are not yet available regarding the results of the mobilization of the Belgian class of 1915, or regarding the call for volunteers, but it is known that the young men refugees in Holland, England, and France are responding with great readiness and enthusiasm.

Kurds Giving Way Before the Russians.

Paris, Nov. 19.—A dispatch to the Havas Agency from Urfa, Persia, says:

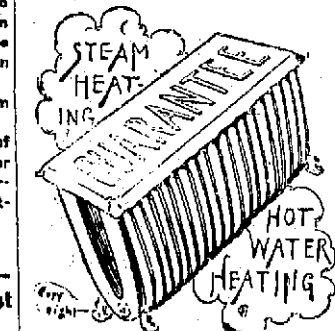

"The Kurds everywhere are giving way before the Russian troops, against whom they care to make the only denials at present. That portion of the Kurds formerly known as the Russians are going to Samakhan, where they are rallying."

Liege, Belgium, Gets Corn for Four Days.

London, Nov. 19.—A dispatch from Amsterdam to the Standard states that 10 wagon loads of American corn have arrived at Liege, in charge of American consular officials. This is four days' supply for the population in that province.

Governor of Metz Dies After Short Illness.

London, Nov. 19.—Gen. von Winterfeldt, the Governor of Metz, died at Wiesbaden after a short illness, according to an Amsterdam dispatch to the Reuters' Telegram Company.

Gives Cause of German Success in Poland.

The Hague, via London, Nov. 19.—A Russian staff officer, passing through here, has this to say as to the cause of the present German success in Poland:

"The Russian Army in Poland maintained three times as many cavalrymen as the Germans. This cavalry swarmed after the retreating Germans, and when the Germans suddenly stopped the Russian cavalry was dashed to pieces like migrating birds flying against a rock."

"Meanwhile the main body of the Russians, 1,000,000 men, whose absolute purpose is to beat the Austrians decisively, is proceeding unopposed to attack Cracow, leaving a smaller detachment to besiege Przemyśl."

"Thereafter," the officer concluded, "the Russians do not intend to attempt to cross the Carpathians but following the Oder River, will make their main attack on Germany by way of Oppeln, Breslau and Glogau."

Liverpool Exchange Honors Lord Roberts.

Liverpool, Nov. 19.—The Liverpool Cotton Exchange closed for two hours today, from noon to 2 p. m., out of respect for the late Lord Roberts.

Berlin Decorated for a Victory in Poland.

London, Nov. 19.—Berlin was decorated yesterday in honor of Gen. von Hindenburg's victory in Poland, according to a Copenhagen dispatch to the Times.

The Russian losses, the dispatch says, are estimated at between 40,000 and 50,000 men.

NO NEED TO FEAR MEAT

No Cattle With Foot and Mouth Disease Being Slaughtered in Federally Inspected Establishments. Thorough Cooking Will Render Uninspected Meat from Local Slaughter Houses Thoroughly Safe.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 19.—According to the specialists of the Department of Agriculture people even in states quarantined for the foot and mouth disease need have no fear of eating meat, provided they cook it thoroughly. The foot and mouth disease is not easily communicated to human beings through food, although milk from a diseased cow might transmit the disease to a human being. In the case of milk, however, pasteurization will render it entirely safe.

Human beings who do get the disease commonly get it from direct contact with a sick animal. It is wisest, therefore, for people to keep away from all animals having the disease, unless they are properly provided with rubber gloves, coats and boots, and these are thoroughly disinfected after each visit to the animals.

In the case of meat, as in the case of milk, it must be remembered that all herds which actually show the disease are quarantined, and neither milk nor meat from the sick animals can be sold. 50 per cent of the meat used in this country is produced in the nearly 900 Federally inspected slaughterhouses and packing establishments located in 240 cities. In these establishments no animal is slaughtered until it has passed an ante-mortem inspection and also a most rigid post-mortem inspection by a veterinarian at time of slaughter. After slaughter its meat cannot leave the establishment until it has been carefully examined and stamped "U. S. Inspected and Passed." In all these establishments no animal showing any symptoms whatever of foot and mouth disease is allowed to go to slaughter, and no meat which, on post-mortem inspection, shows any suspicious symptoms of this complaint can be shipped out of the establishment.

All meat suspected of coming from an animal suffering with this complaint is sent under Government seal, to the tanks to be rendered into fertilizer. The Federal inspection stamp on meat, therefore, means that it is entirely safe.

The Federal Government, however, has no jurisdiction over local slaughterhouses which do not ship meat out of the state in which it is slaughtered. If, however, meat from such a local slaughterhouse, which are purely under state or municipal control, all danger of its communicating the disease to human beings would be removed when it is thoroughly cooked and sterilized. Those who are located near an infected region and wish to be absolutely certain of the safety of their meat should cook it thoroughly.

The disease when contracted by adults is not at all a serious illness. It commonly takes the form of a slight fever, sore in the mouth and a slight eruption on the fingers. In the case of small or sickly children, it may take a more serious form, especially if combined by other illnesses.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

To protect a blister or other abrasion on the skin of the foot from injury by shoe or stocking, wash with peroxide, cover with absorbent cotton, and then coat the absorbent cotton with new skin, allowing this to dry before putting the stocking on.

To mend a tear in dark woolen goods so successfully that the places will be hardly discernible, use a hair in the place of either silk or thread.

The common ball and socket so often employed in fastening dresses, may also be used to fasten papers together. A hole should be made in the papers with some pointed instrument, and then the ball and socket snapped together. It will be found a very satisfactory substitute for a paper fastener if that is not immediately obtainable.

A very neat little holder for balls of darning cotton may be made by cutting two pieces of pastboard into elliptical shapes, covering them with silk and running a ribbon through them and through the center of the spool of darning cotton. The spool will revolve in this holder and the ends of cotton will not tangle as it would if thrown hit or miss into the darning bag. These holders may be made large enough for two, three or four balls, according to the length of the elliptical pastboards.

Ripe tomato rubbed on ink stains in a linen fabric will remove them almost instantly.

DETAILS OF THE CAPTURE OF VALLEJO.

Berlin, via The Hague, Nov. 19.—The Neue Freie Presse correspondent gives details of the capture of Vallejo. The Austrians advanced in five columns, three of which arrived within cannon range early Sunday, but the attack was delayed, because of the slow progress of the other columns over a difficult terrain.

The attack began at 11 o'clock. The Austrians, despite vigorous resistance enveloped the Servian left wing and drove it in. The right wing was simultaneously threatened by an outflanking movement from Rohubara, and a devastating artillery fire completed the discomfiture of the Servians, who by 5 o'clock in the afternoon were in full retreat on Arandjelovatz abandoning fortifications, on which they had worked for years, and which were considered impregnable. It is doubtful whether the Servians will make a stand at Arandjelovatz.

The Servians had no time to bring off or to destroy their guns or supplies, great quantities of which fell into the hands of the Austrians. Over 6000 Servians were taken prisoners.

A MOST ENJOYABLE CONCERT

Despite the storm, there was a good sized audience at Freeman's Hall on Thursday evening to hear the concert of the Adams Company, under the auspices of the Ladies' Society of the Methodist church, and they were well repaid for their inconvenience of the storm.

The concert was exceptionally fine, for every member is an artist, and their program was well suited to bring out the best.

The program included Miss Minnie L. Sample, soprano, Helen Grant, cello, Wilfred Hamilton Dent, reader, and Crawford Adams violinist. Every number was a gem in itself.

Miss Sample has a most pleasing soprano voice and her selections were varied and finely rendered. Miss Grant has rare command of the cello and Mr. Adams made a great impression as a violinist for he has a technique and expression that bring out wonderful harmony.

The readings of Miss Dent were exceptionally well rendered.

The program:

Spanish Dance, No. 5 (Bolero) ... Moszkowski
Instrumental Trio
"Rose of Plymouth Town" ... Sutherland
Miss Dent
Cello Solo, "Liebestraum" ... Liszt
Miss Grant
Soprano Solo "One Fine Day" from "Madam Butterfly" ... Puccini
Violin Solo, Selected ... Mr. Adams
"Ave Maria" ... Bach-Gounod
Instrumental Trio
"Mirandy—on the Head of the House" ... Dix
Miss Dent
Soprano Solo
a "I Know" ... Spess
b. "Song of Wailing" ... Spess
c. "Birthday" ... Woodman
d. "In June" ... Spess
e. "Day in June" ... Long
Violin Solo, Selected ... Mr. Adams
"Good Bye" ... Tosti
Instrumental Trio and Voice

OBSEQUIES

Mrs. Elvira Scott Entwistle

The funeral of Mrs. Elvira Scott Entwistle, wife of Hon. Thomas Entwistle, was held on Thursday afternoon at two-thirty from her late home on Cabot street and it was largely attended by relatives and friends.

Rev. Charles L. V. Brine, rector of the Christ Episcopal church read the Episcopal service, and a male quartet consisting of Messrs. John W. Mitchell, Harace L. Rowe, Charles W. Gray and Ira A. Newell rendered vocal selections.

The pall bearers were sons and grandson, William T. Entwistle, Walter Purvis, Oliver J. Goldsmith and Reginald Goldsmith. Interment took place in Harmony Grove cemetery and the grave was completely covered with handsome floral pieces. Undertaker H. W. Nickerson was funeral director.

Information for Lung Sufferers

The bookers of Eckman's Alternative will be pleased to send reports of recoveries from tuberculosis and a booklet of interest to sufferers, with information about diet and fresh air. Inventor of this remedy, 2141 Susquehanna Ave., Duluth, Minn.

"My dear Sir—For two years I was afflicted with hemorrhages of the lungs, and later I was taken with a severe attack of pneumonia. When I recovered sufficiently to walk about the house I was left with a frightful hacking cough which no medicine I had taken could alleviate. It was at this time, March 1902, that I started taking Eckman's Alternative. In a short time my cough was gone and I was pronounced well. I cannot speak too highly for the good it has done. (Abbreviated.) EDWARD L. STORZ."

Eckman's Alternative is most efficacious in bronchial catarrh and severe throat and lung affections and up-building the system. Contains no harmful or habit-forming drugs. Accept no substitutes. Small size, $1; regular size, $2. Sold by leading druggists. Write for booklet of recoveries. Eckman Laboratories, Philadelphia.

Sold in Portsmouth by Benjamin Green.

Mlle. Marcelle Prance, leading comedy actress of the Varieties Theatre, Paris, says: "Words cannot express all the good I think of Savon Cadum." The most convincing argument in favor of Savon Cadum, the great French Complexion soap, is that the women of France have made it the most popular soap in that country. Its absolute purity makes it indispensable to all who value a clean, clear complexion. Sold by the leading department stores, drug stores, etc. a cake.
